

Kallie J. Alexander earned her Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice and Criminology, with a minor in Sociology, from Metropolitan State University of Denver, in Denver, Colorado. She earned her Master of Science in Criminal Justice Administration from Chaminade University of Honolulu, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

She began her probation career with the Hawaii State Judiciary in the Drug Court program, before transferring to the Integrated Services Section, HOPE Probation, supervising high-risk adult offenders, primarily sex offenders. She relocated to Round Rock, Texas, where she worked for the Williamson County Community Supervision and Corrections Department, supervising sex offenders. From there, she joined United States Courts as a Federal Probation Officer in Waco, where she worked for seven years. Her time spent with U.S. Probation focused on Court investigations, and she was a certified instructor in Officer Response Tactics.